

OUR MANIFESTO ON INCLUSIVE EDUCATION.

EASPD had a conference in Dublin in Ireland in 2009.

The conference was about education.

After the conference we wrote a Manifesto.

A Manifesto says what should happen next.

It says what everyone should do.

WHAT EASPD BELIEVES.

Every child and adult with disabilities has the right

- to good education like everyone else.
- to education with everyone else. This is called INCLUSIVE EDUCATION.
- to help so this can happen.

This is also what the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities says.

This is also what UNESCO says in the Salamanca Statement.

WHAT DOES INCLUSIVE EDUCATION MEAN?

Inclusive education is for everyone.

Every child is equally important.

Every child should get the education which is right for them.

Then they can be the person they want to be.

Then they can be part of society like everyone else.

Inclusive education lasts for all of a person's life.

Inclusive education means everyone works together.

WHAT WILL EASPD DO TO HELP THIS HAPPEN?

EASPD will

- share ideas and information.
- work with other people and organisations across Europe.

- organise meetings and conferences.

EASPD has a special Project called "Pathways to Inclusion."

This project will do all these things.

WHAT WE WOULD LIKE OTHERS TO DO.

POLITICIANS AND POLICY MAKERS.

They can make inclusive education happen.

They need

- to make good laws.
- to make good rules.
- to show they believe in inclusive education.
- to work with everyone else.
- to give enough money to make it happen.
- to have good information.
- to have a plan to change things.

There are lots of things they can do in that plan.

College

They can change the way special schools work.

So they can help other schools.

Training Room

They can change the way teachers are trained.

They can help everyone learn together.

They can find special money to make the plan happen.

INDIVIDUAL ORGANISATIONS.

They can make inclusive education happen.

They can

- do everything in a person centred way.
- work with everyone else.

- show they believe in inclusive education.
- make plans to change things.

When everyone works together then Inclusive education will really happen!!
